Cultural diversity

Colombia has an immense cultural diversity, the Colombian national aboriginal association -ONIC- confirms 102 indigenous communities with more than 1,400,000 people. The locals share their territory with the Afro-Colombian and rural population, live in peace and support one another. This peace is often in danger, which is why the population groups come together to defend their fundamental rights.

From north to south the different indigenous communities extend.

PA CHAWENE - ONE HAND FOR MY BROTHER

It is a network of friends who want to be an active part of the country's development by supporting our indigenous brothers in Colombia.

PA CHAWENE is a Tikuna term that means MY BROTHER.

Join the network and become part of the PA CHAWENE group on Facebook:

The group aims to convene and sensitize those who want to actively participate in the support and well-being of ethnic minorities through a monthly contribution. Through constant communications, activities, events and cultural displays, the members of the group will be aware of the conception of the projects, their evolution and results, as well as the situation of our indigenous, Afro-descendant and peasant brothers.
